Program Description: A 3 year fellowship for gynecologists and 2 years for urologists. Our program combines the resources of two established training institutions, University Hospitals Case Medical Center and Metro Health Medical Center, to offer trainees exposure to the breadth and depth of FPMRS, including robotics, vaginal and abdominal surgery, single port laparoscopy, novel therapies, NIH funded research and outstanding clinical experiences. All fellows have a full 12 months of dedicated research time as well as significant opportunities to pursue personal research interests. The program faculty includes 4 fellowship trained urogynecologists, 2 fellowship trained female urologists and one fellowship trained minimally invasive surgeon between the two clinical locations. Off-service rotations will add depth to the educational experience and include colorectal surgery, gastroenterology, neurology, and a multidisciplinary pelvic pain clinic. Fellows will be well trained to become productive and successful academicians.
